If, however, that relation of care is presumed to be a feature of all child-rearing arrangements, then we have to consider whether such is true. Although this conception is superior to the cognitive model in that it neither presupposes an inwardly directed perceptive capability nor equates mental states with objects, it transforms our desires and feelings nevertheless into products of our own free decision; the subject thus seems to be wholly responsible for her mental states.

R23H66dc22JoelGolbNewYork:Verso, Just to give an example - one that Honneth does not give, because he's too scared to be this radical - even if we had a completely just distribution in capitalism, we would still have alienation. But, then again, I should probably need to read the book more carefully in order to make a properly informed judgement on. Remember me on this computer.

Scott show show official and unofficial behaviors in hierarchical environment in the course of our practices we might pursue a goal so energetically and one-dimensionally that we stop paying attention to other, possibly more original and important motives and aims.
